What’s in your Michigan memory bank? Furstenburg, M1, mnemonics, Zingerman’s, Angelo’s, Phi Chi notes, all-nighters, Galen’s Smoker, Netter’s, Match Day; Drs. Abrams, Burkel or Fantone (Class of 1995)? Each class has its own wonderfully unique personality and inimitable set of experiences. For some, this free association of words and names brings to mind a brief encounter or a smile; maybe even the aroma of some delicious bread! For others, relationships developed that will last a lifetime. For all of us, the single common thread is a start in medicine on a firm foundation of excellence.

When we were first brought together, our lives crossed paths largely by chance. We have an opportunity to come together again, this time quite deliberately. It is my distinct pleasure to invite you to the 2015 University of Michigan Medical School Reunion to rekindle, refresh and rebuild on a foundation of friendships that were born of a truly unparalleleled, shared set of experiences.

We really look forward to seeing you in October! Go Blue!

Highest Regards,

Louito C. Edje (M.D. 1995)
President, Medical Center Alumni Society

Udall Center of Excellence for Parkinson’s Disease Research. In addition to caring for patients with movement disorders, he runs a research laboratory that is unraveling how genes mutated in Parkinson’s disease cause illness. Dr. Dauer’s work has been recognized by many awards, including the Harold and Golden Lamport Award for excellence in clinical science research. Additionally, he has been elected to the American Neurological Association and the American Society for Clinical Investigation.

Dr. Kutcher serves as the director of the National Basketball Association’s concussion program and has helped develop the concussion policies of the National Collegiate Athletic Association. Additionally, he is a consultant for both the National Football League and National Hockey League Players’ Associations.

10:05-10:45 a.m.
Stewart C. Wang, M.D., Ph.D., is a trauma and acute care surgeon on the faculty of the U-M Trauma Burn Center. He is an endowed professor of surgery, the founding director of the International Center for Automotive Medicine and director of the multidisciplinary U-M Program for Injury Research and Education. Since 1997, Dr. Wang has hosted a neutral forum where real-world crash cases are forensically analyzed by a group of medical, engineering, policy and biomechanical experts. As a result of his research, Dr. Wang founded and directs a large team working in the novel field of analytic morphomics. He is also director of burn surgery at U-M’s ABA-verified burn center and director of the State of Michigan Burn Coordinating Center for Mass Casualty Incidents.

10:50-11:30 a.m.
Student Panel – Life at U-M Medical School in 2015

Eric Middleton, Ph.D., is a counseling psychologist at the U-M Medical School. Time will be provided at the end of the presentation for questions to the panelists.

You’ll also hear from current medical students regarding how scholarship has impacted both their education and potential as a physician.

2-4 p.m.
Walking Tour of the renovated A. Alfred Taubman Health Sciences Library

Get a firsthand look at how today’s medical students learn in this transformative new space, which includes a private, customized student lounge; 17 technology-rich small group classrooms; two interprofessional leadership zones for problem-solving and meetings; an expansive computing cluster; several large and small study rooms and zones; an entire floor dedicated to clinical skills learning and assessment; and a large commons area for community gathering, food and exhibits.
